ROSTRA'25: Conglomeration of Literati

Poetry would not treat your grief but it would listen, feel and understand. When all of the darkest agonies and deepest anguishes precipitate on a certain forsaken night, literature would come to your rescue being the perfect impersonation of light at the end of the tunnel. The brilliant conglomeration of poetry, lyrics and rhythm where words ooze the elixir of tranquility and freedom, literature would enable every being to look beyond the shackles of defined learning and experience life in a form so endearing yet so refreshing. Performing its supreme duty, literature has always been instigating a burn amongst the brilliant mass of the literatis, a burn of introspection, a burn of imagination. A burn of creativity, passion and brilliance.

To rekindle this particular burn in the compassionate yet yearning hearts of the literary enthusiasts spanning across the country, The Literary Society, BIT MESRA celebrated its annual literary fest, one of the biggest and most prominent in East India- ROSTRA'25. Offering a stage to all of the people who bleed ink, this literary celebration offered an entirety of events with genres different yet alluring. A plethora of exciting competitions for people alike, the events took place under three varieties- Flagship, formal and informal events. A perfect encapsulation of glee and poetry, ROSTRA'25 was an experience, a realm for the creative minds and the free thinkers who serve as the maestros in the intricate art of words and punctuations.

DESCRIPTION:

During the Spring 2025 semester, the Literary Society at BIT Mesra conducted a total of 12 session-workshops, spanning 30 hours in total, aimed at enhancing literary and communication skills among students. These initiatives provided participants with opportunities to refine their public speaking, writing, and critical thinking abilities - essential skills for academic and professional success.

In a technical institute, the importance of strong communication skills cannot be overlooked. Engineers and technologists frequently need to present their ideas clearly, in project discussions, research papers, or professional meetings. The ability to express thoughts effectively, engage in meaningful conversations, and articulate ideas persuasively is crucial in today's competitive world.

The workshops covered diverse aspects of English and Hindi literature. Some focused on debate and public speaking, helping students develop confidence, quick thinking, and the ability to present logical arguments. Others emphasized extempore reading and news reporting, which improved spontaneity and articulation. Creative writing and storytelling activities nurtured imagination and refined narrative skills, allowing participants to explore literature beyond technical subjects. Literary exhibitions and poetry sessions provided a platform for appreciating classic and contemporary works, fostering a deeper connection with language and expression.

These 30 hours of structured sessions not only promoted literary excellence but also played a key role in bridging the gap between technical knowledge and effective communication. By participating in such events, students honed their ability to present ideas persuasively, think critically, and engage in constructive discussions - skills that will serve them well in their future academic and professional journeys. The Literary Society's efforts ensured that students at BIT Mesra developed into well-rounded individuals, equipped with both technical expertise and the ability to communicate effectively in any sphere.

NEWS AND PUBLICATION SOCIETY, BIT MESRA ANNUAL REPORT 2024-2025

The News and Publication Society, BIT Mesra, is the foremost student-run campus media body. It plays a crucial role in bridging the gap between the institution and its students. We deliver timely and accurate coverage of all major campus events, ensuring that students remain informed and involved. Our team is responsible for crafting detailed reports, conducting interviews with esteemed guests and speakers, and archiving event highlights. Additionally, we maintain strong coordination with external media house to represent the institute in the best light. The Society also encourages its members to voice their opinions through well-articulated editorials on socially and academically relevant topics. Through our diverse efforts, we aim to cultivate an informed, connected, and expressive student community.

We successfully organized the following events in the last annual academic year MO24 and SP25:

- JournoCon'24
- Vox Populi
- The Journalist's Hour
- Beyond The Screen
- K.B.C (Kaun Banega Collector)

Additionally, NAPS was invited as a “Media Partner” at DevFest'24, organized by Google Developer Group Ranchi. We conducted interviews with tech experts from top firms, successful alumni, and startup founders, discussing emerging opportunities for students in the modern tech era and gaining insights into the motivations behind their entrepreneurial ventures.

DESCRIPTION:

Between 6 and 8 September 2024, the BIT Mesra hosted the Data Science Summit, a three-day extravaganza of analytical prowess and technological panache. The summit had a myriad of activities that tested the participants' ability to think critically, code creatively, and work together in teams—all while navigating the rapidly changing landscape of data science.

The excitement peaked on 7 September with Treasure Trail, a data-based treasure hunt that made the campus a maze of numbers and statistics, where participants had to decode messages and follow clues with the use of logical reasoning. Running alongside this was Hack & Forge, a 24-hour hackathon that started on the morning of 7 September and went on through the night into 8 September. Teams addressed real-life problem statements, formulating innovative solutions within a time constraint and presenting them to a panel of judges.

To complement the hands-on competitions were Coders Cup, a coding competition on HackerRank that challenged algorithmic skills, and Tech Quiz, where teams fought through rounds of quick-fire questions on data science, AI, and new technologies. Combined, the events provided a high-energy environment that mixed competition and education, attracting talent from disciplines and reinforcing SDS's dedication to creating the data leaders of the future.

On March 15, 2025, the room 233A was packed to the walls when the Data Science Club organized Spotify Wrapped, a participatory event allowing two or three contestants to form a team to demonstrate how musically adept they could be as individuals. From the first beat, Riya Patel and Arjun Mehta put their hallmark energy front and centre in the hall with winding trivia hooks from every angle under an original scripted dialogue.

Contestants began with a screenshot round of contestants guessing the songs from stills, next a clip round with rapid fire teasers, movement into a music from an album round where teams guessed the albums with track names and artwork flashed on the boards. There were laughter and roars for every near-miss and buzzer beater as we all energised the room until the last song played through.

After tallying the scores, the top 3 teams were presented trophies and certifications and we all collectively roared for recognition of their bitotsav points. Our team congratulated the participants sociably and acknowledged the planners as the horseshoe misfiring with all targets. Our fun finished at 3:30 P.M. and the hall littered with smiles - a shared reminder we all took away that good music coupled with friendly competition keeps the jazz rolling.

WORKSHOP

DESCRIPTION:

On 8 and 9 February 2025, the BIT Mesra Society for Data Science conducted a competitive Machine Learning Workshop in Room 233A, with one-day immersion into the data and AI world from 9:00 A.M. to 12:00 P.M. and 1:00 P.M. to 4:00 P.M. for two consecutive days. The workshop offered a platform to eager learners and passionate mentors to engage with each other in an atmosphere that was replete with curiosity and innovation.

Day 1 set the solid foundation with the NumPy, Pandas, and Matplotlib sessions—equipping students with the tools to manipulate and visualize data. The afternoon progressed to building interactive dashboards with Power BI, enabling students to take raw data and transform it into compelling insights.

Day 2 opened doors as students entered the realms of image processing, neural networks, Generative AI, and Retrieval-Augmented Generation (RAG). The classes immersed students in learning how machines perceive, learn, and create, balancing technical depth and creative exploration. As it concluded, Room 237 buzzed with the excitement of discovery and the potential of what data-driven futures hold.
